The Elevated Six: Unveiling the Faces of Manipulation

- The Charmer

With a disarming smile and a magnetic presence, The Charmer lures victims into a false sense of trust and affection. Their charm serves as a cloak for manipulation, enabling them to gain control and exploit others.

- The Intimidator

Fear is The Intimidator's weapon of choice. Through threats, violence, or social isolation, they dominate and control their victims. Their aggressive behavior instils a sense of helplessness, khiến the victims dread defying them.

- The Gaslighter

The Gaslighter's insidious strategy involves twisting reality and manipulating perceptions. They deny, distort, and project blame, leaving victims questioning their own sanity and self-worth. This subtle form of control slowly erodes the victim's confidence and sense of self.

- The Isolator

Isolation is The Isolator's primary tool. By cutting off victims from their support systems and relationships, they create a sense of dependence and make it harder for victims to seek help or break free.

- The Guilt-Tripper

The Guilt-Tripper manipulates victims through feelings of guilt, shame, and obligation. They play on the victim's emotions, making them feel responsible for the manipulator's happiness or unhappiness. This emotional blackmail often leads to the victim sacrificing their own needs and desires.

- The Narcissist

Driven by an inflated sense of self-importance, The Narcissist exploits others to feed their insatiable need for admiration and attention. They lack empathy and are incapable of genuine connections, leaving their victims feeling used and discarded.
