

The Definitive Short Biography of the Founding Father of Irish Republicanism: Theobald Wolfe Tone

Theobald Wolfe Tone was an Irish revolutionary and the founding father of Irish republicanism. He was born in Dublin in 1763, the son of a wealthy Protestant merchant. Tone was educated at Trinity College Dublin, where he studied law. However, he soon became involved in politics, and in 1791 he helped to found the United Irishmen, a radical republican organization.

The United Irishmen sought to establish a democratic republic in Ireland, free from British rule. Tone was one of the organization's most prominent leaders, and he wrote many pamphlets and articles advocating for Irish independence. He also traveled to France and the United States to seek support for the United Irishmen.
